International Collaboration for Community Health Nursing Research (ICCHNR)

Remembering Professor Lisbeth Hockey, 1918-2004
Pioneer, Research Leader and Founder of ICCHNR
"I learned a lot as a doubter. I have never been very keen to accept things at their face value just because they have always been done that way...probably I am just a doubter by nature..."

Royal College of Nursing Archives T/252/1 [C/300/8/3/1]: Oral History Interview with Lisbeth Hockey, 4th October 2000.

With grateful thanks to the wonderful UK Centre for the History of Nursing Archives, hosted by the University of Manchester (http://sites.nursing.manchester.ac.uk/ukchnm/)
Nurses who really care, in the true sense of the term, will not be content. They will question, read and avail themselves of the new knowledge for the benefit of their patients and clients."

Lisbeth worked at local and national levels, but pre-eminently she was an international player in Europe and North America

Vision for building international capacity in community nursing research

ICCHNR Aims:

• To demonstrate the value of community health care nursing research for improving the quality of health care.

• To advance and share knowledge of community health care nursing practice through research.

• To increase personal commitment by community nurses to evidence based practice.

• To encourage the appropriate use of research for community nursing.

• To promote awareness of the contribution of community health care nursing to healthy public policies and alliances.

Queen’s Nursing Institute (QNI)

ICCHNR is delighted that the Council of the Queen’s Nursing Institute (QNI) has recently agreed that they become an associate partner of ICCHNR. This will greatly add to our commitment to promote research and evidence based practice to community health nurses globally. ICCHNR welcomes the partnership with QNI and looks forward to supporting our common purposes.
